

As individuals in recovery ourselves, we know how challenging initiating and maintaining our recovery from substance misuse and/or mental health can be. Our experience has taught us that giving/receiving support and staying connected with others can help us find and stay on our own path to recovery. We are not here to tell you what your recovery should look like or how you should do it. We are simply offering you some support, encouragement and connection along the way.

You are not alone.

*"How can we help you
